Introduction

General overview

Montenegro undertook an obligation in line with the interim benchmarks for Chapter 23 of the accession negotiations with the European Union to adopt and implement new national strategy for judicial reform (2014-2018) and the accompanying action plan. The state also agreed to continuously observe through the monitoring mechanism the impact of various strategic measures and take corrective measures when necessary.

In April 2014 the Government of Montenegro adopted the Judicial Reform Strategy for 2014-2018, and in late July 2014 also the Action Plan (AP) for its implementation for the two-year period 2014-2016. In October 2014 the Government established the Council for monitoring the implementation of the Strategy.

The new Judicial Reform Strategy for 2014-2018 contains the same four strategic objectives as the previous Judicial Reform Strategy for 2007-2012, and a number of strategic guidelines are the same or substantially the same. This suggests that substantial reform objectives have not been achieved, and that it was necessary to again plan for their implementation in the following four years.

Considering the fact that Montenegro embarked on the path of judicial reform fifteen years ago – already in 2000 - with the Judicial Reform Project, it would be necessary to first identify and analyse the current effects of the reform in order to ensure its successful accomplishment in the following four years.

But, the new Judicial Reform Strategy for 2014-2018 and AP for its implementation have not been based on a thorough assessment of the achievements under the previous strategy. The Chapter of the new Strategy 2014-2018 entitled “Analysis of the effects of the Judicial Reform Strategy for the period 2007-2012” does not provide with sufficient information to measure and evaluate earlier effects and the same applies for reports of the Commission for the implementation of the Action Plan implementing the Judicial Reform Strategy 2007-2012.

The main objection to the content of the said chapter and the Strategy 2014-2018 as a whole is that observations about the previous shortcomings or successes have not been based on any analysis, but are given arbitrarily, and the same was the case with the Strategy that preceded it. Our main recommendation is therefore to change this approach and in the future have more attention and funds invested in qualitative and thorough analyses of progress made in the reform steps, which would be published and discussed. We believe that the funds invested in such research and overview could prevent that effective implementation of what has long been planned is once again postponed for an uncertain future.

The aim of this report is to provide with detailed insight into the effects of the previous Judicial Reform Strategy for 2007-2012 and compare them with the new planned objectives, guidelines, measures and actions of the Strategy for 2014-2018, in order to inspect whether the new Strategy and its AP encompass all necessary changes.

The Report includes an assessment of the realization of strategic goals from the Judicial Reform Strategy 2007-2012 based on: AP for its implementation,¹ Judicial Reform Strategy 2014-2018, particularly the sections entitled “Analysis of the effects of the Judicial Reform Strategy 2007-2012” and “situation analysis”, reports of the Commission for the implementation of AP for the Strategy 2007-2012², the first semi-annual report of the Council for monitoring the implementation of the new Strategy³, Action Plans for Chapters 23 and 24, operationalizing recommendations in the reports on the screening of legislation (i.e. screening reports),⁴ as well as interim benchmarks for Chapter 23, set forth by the European Commission in December 2013, serving as basis to measure progress in the rule of law that will affect the overall course of the accession negotiations⁵. Reports or opinions of the Council of Europe, the European Commission and non-governmental organizations from Montenegro were also consulted.

Adoption of Judicial Reform Strategies for 2007-2012 and for 2014-2018

In June 2007 the Government of Montenegro adopted the Judicial Reform Strategy (2007-2012), and in December 2007 the AP for its implementation⁶, as basic docu-

The reports include only a brief review of the implementation of strategic objectives and planned measures, as well as a tabular presentation of achieved and unachieved measures, but not relevant statistical data pertaining to the application of laws, a more detailed explanation and analysis of effects achieved or the reasons why certain measures were not implemented or have not been implemented fully.

ments containing directions for judicial reform. The strategy begins with a reminder of the 2000 Judicial Reform Project, which determined four basic directions of the forthcoming reform: adoption and implementation of new laws, professional training of judicial office holders, establishment of special institutions and development of the judicial information system – JIS⁷.

The Strategy for 2007-2012 goes on to state that over 20 laws have been adopted in the meantime governing the work of courts and prosecutors' offices, criminal and civil proceedings, etc., as well as secondary legislation. However, it provided a very concise assessment of the effects of those laws. The assessment of the situation that preceded the adoption of the Strategy is given under each section of the Strategy, under the heading "Current situation", but only very briefly and arbitrarily. The assessment has not been based on the results of any analyses of the implementation of laws relating to the judiciary, public opinion surveys, opinions of parties in court proceedings or the like.⁸

Both strategies for judicial reform were adopted before the action plans elaborating them were adopted. It would be better, more logical and purposeful to concurrently develop and adopt strategies and action plans, because both documents make for one strategic plan on the whole. The same is highlighted in the commentary no. 1 on the Review of the first semi-annual report on monitoring the implementation of AP with the Strategy for 2014-2016, Annex 2.

Establishing bodies for monitoring implementation of strategies

In 2008 the Government of Montenegro established a commission to monitor the implementation of the Strategy for reform of judiciary 2007-2012 and its Action Plan. The commission was composed of the elders of all judicial and other relevant government bodies to which the strategy related, as well as the chairmen of the Bar Association, Association of Judges and Association of State Prosecutors.⁹ The Commission, however, in addition to the aforementioned professional associations, did not include representatives of other non-governmental organizations or academic community. While establishing the Council for monitoring the implementation of Reform Strategy 2014-2018, the Government once again

⁷ In Montenegro, the abbreviation is PRIS, as for Pravosudni informacioni sistem.

closed the composition of this reform monitoring body for representatives of non-governmental organizations that are not only professional associations of judges and public prosecutors.¹⁰

Strategic objectives and activities

The four strategic objectives of the Judicial Reform Strategy (2007-2012) were: strengthening of independence and autonomy, efficiency, access to justice and strengthening of public confidence in the judiciary. The Strategy also listed areas where reform efforts should have been undertaken to achieve the strategic objectives: training in judicial authorities, international judicial cooperation, alternative dispute resolution, case law, judicial information system and prison system, envisaging 77 activities for the implementation of these strategic objectives.

The same goals are included in the new Judicial Reform Strategy (2014-2018), which also encompasses objectives Montenegrin judiciary as part of the European judiciary and Development of judicial institutions and other institutions working with judiciary. Two goals from the previous Strategy (Enhancing access of judicial bodies, i.e. access to justice and Strengthening public confidence in the judiciary) have been merged into one objective: "Enhancing the accessibility, transparency and public confidence in the judiciary".

Additionally, the new Strategy includes 18 strategic guidelines and 156 activities for their implementation, of which 53 are the same or substantially the same as the activities of the previous Strategy and mainly relate to the strengthening of independence, impartiality and accountability of judicial office holders, as well as the efficiency of the judiciary.

¹⁰ See letter addressed to the Prime Minister of Montenegro by representatives of NGOs Human Rights Action and CEMI of 24 November 2014 (<http://www.hraccion.org/wp-content/uploads/DOPIS-CeMI-i-HRA-24-nov-2014.pdf>) and response of the Government of 10 December 2014 (<http://www.hraccion.org/wp-content/uploads/Odgovor-Vlade.pdf>). Decision on the establishment of the Council for monitoring the implementation of the Judicial Reform Strategy 2014 - 2018 was adopted in accordance with the Decree on the Government of Montenegro (Sl. list CG, 80/08), according to which the Government may establish a temporary working body by a decision, determining its composition and tasks, to consider certain issues within its competence and provide opinions and proposals. According to the Decree, the Government is not obliged to announce a competition for the establishment of the Council or appointment of its members from the NGO sector, but could invite on its own initiative representatives of relevant NGOs to participate in the work of this temporary body. Also, the Government adopted a Decision on the establishment of a national commission for the implementation of the Strategy for Combating Corruption and Organized Crime (Sl. list CG, 61/10 of 22 October 2010, 04/11 of 18 January 2011, 47/11 of 23 September 2011, 17/12 of 27 March 2012), appointing Vanja Čalović (NGO MANS) and Zlatko Vujović (NGO Coalition Through Cooperation To Goals) as full members of this body.
